The Vanquish VQ52 (2023) is a masterclass in custom aluminum engineering, standing out as a supreme "driver's boat" designed for the owner who wants to make a bold statement. Like its larger siblings, it skips traditional fiberglass in favor of a lightweight, marine-grade aluminum hull crafted by the experts at Vanquish in the Netherlands. The layout highlights are strictly built around outdoor living and upscale entertaining, offering massive walk-around side decks and a vast open cockpit that seamlessly blends into the helm. For day charters or family trips, the VQ52 can host up to 18 people above deck in absolute luxury under the shade of its striking carbon-fiber T-top, while hiding a minimalist, high-design interior cabin below for overnight weekend stays.

Technically, the Vanquish 52 specs are heavily optimized for agility, explosive acceleration, and high speeds. Usually configured with twin Volvo Penta IPS 950 or Cummins Z...
